Greet 4th Of July With Ringing Bells

"Let Freedom Ring..."

The mayors of all the area communities are joining with Gov. Shapiro in urging that the nation's birthday be marked with ringing of bells.

The time set -- for this is to be a united affair on a national scale -- is 1 o'clock in the afternoon central daylight saving time.

The public is urged by these officials to set bells ringing thruout the land. Churches with bells are also asked to let their voices be heard.

When the Declaration of Independence was adopted July 4, 1776, the bell in Independence Hall at Philadelphia -- thereafter known as the Liberty Bell -- was the first bell to ring in celebration of the event.

It bears an inscription from Leviticus 25:10: "Proclaim Liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

The Liberty Bell was cast in England in 1750 and cracked during its testing, necessitating that it be recast twice before it was hung in Independence Hall. It was rung every Fourth of July from 1776 to 1835, when it cracked while tolling the funeral procession of Chief Justice Marshall of the United States Supreme Court.

It has been silent since except on D-Day in World War II when it was rung by the Philadelphia mayor thru tapping with a rubber hammer for two international radio broadcasts.

Thus, the ringing of bells in celebration of Independence Day goes back to the beginning of the Nation -- 198 years ago.

So it is proclaimed -- let the bells peal again on this Fourth of July, 1968.

Report Land Sales In Orland Township

The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago has added two parcels of land to the Good Shepherd Cemetery at 104th Av. and 159th St.

A 40-acre tract was purchased from Mr. and Mrs. James Sheehan, and a piece containing approximately 30 acres from the George Beemsterboer Co. The tracts are adjacent to and on either side of the cemetery.

Also reported to be in the process of being sold is a 39 acre piece at the southwest corner of 159th and U.S. 45. The acre on the corner, occupied by the Brennan Restaurant, is not included. Marvin Cooper, who owns the 39 acres, confirmed that a deal was in progress under which the land would change hands.

Reportedly the tract is being purchased by a Greek syndicate. Cooper said he did not know to what use the property would be put if the deal is carried out. There were reports in the area that a motel, one of a national chain, is planned for the tract.

It was reported that the price was approximately the same in all the deals, around $4,000 an acre.

Orland Park is looking forward to development of property in the vicinity of the village and is drafting plans for extension of water and sewer lines that should aid any development. Orland Park would like to attract more light industry -- quite a lot more industry in fact. Orland Park has no desire to become simply a dormitory town and its leaders are confident it can attract enough business and industry to assure its proper growth and development.

The Chicago Sanitary District reportedly has plans to install an interceptor system to 167th St. which would open up a lot of territory for homes and industry, it was pointed out.

First U.S. Cars

Early car buyers wanted a durable car whose repairs could be handled by the local blacksmith. The 1899 Packard featured leather fenders to keep mud off the passengers.

Cloverleaf To Be Taken On Aug. 23

The state highway department will be taking bids Aug. 23 on construction of the cloverleaf that will permit exchange of traffic between I-80 and U.S. 45 east of Mokena.

The letting is slated to take place at Springfield.

Completion of this cloverleaf -- some of the work has been done when I-80 was built -- will provide this area with easier access to the east-west interstate route.

To use I-80 now traffic from this area must go to Tinley Park or New Lenox.

The cloverleaf on U.S. 45 is expected to be a factor in attracting industry.

Will Enter Silver Cross School

Mrs. Donald Nelson, R.R. No. 1, New Lenox, has been accepted by Silver Cross Hospital School of Nursing, Joliet, for the class which will enter in September.

The Joliet school was the first in Illinois to offer a two year course when legislature passed a nursing act which made it possible for graduates of a two year program school to take state board examinations and, if successful, become registered nurses.

Communities Plan Fourth Of July Celebrations

Three fireworks displays will feature community celebrations of the Fourth of July -- Orland Park, Mokena and New Lenox.

Originally a parade had been planned as part of the Orland Park program but because of a lack of entries, especially marching bands, the committee in charge decided last week to cancel it. However, according to the committee in charge from the Orland Park Chamber of Commerce, work is starting now on planning a parade for next year. There will be a meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the village hall to which all interested citizens are invited.

There will be a parade at Mokena, at 1:30 o'clock on the Fourth, as a part of the four-day festival there sponsored by the Lions Club.

The Cherry Hill Homeowners also have a parade planned for the Fourth.

The Association of Commerce and Lions Club at New Lenox is planning a fireworks display the night of the Fourth. It will be staged on the Lincoln-Way High School campus -- on the athletic field. There will be no admission charge, according to those in charge, and the public is invited.

The Orland Park Chamber of Commerce, which last year had charge of the fireworks there will be responsible for them again this year. The Orland display will take place on the athletic field at Carl Sandburg High School. The public is invited. There will be a charge of $1 per car. The Chamber is spending $1,500 on fireworks this year, which is $500 more than was expended last year.

The fireworks display at Mokena will be held on Sunday night, July 7, the last day of the festival. They will be set off in Community Park and admission is free. The fireworks display at

Mokena Firm To Show Wares At Navy Pier

The L & M Cork Products Co., of Mokena, will show its various wares at the Navy Pier Housewares and Variety Exhibit in Chicago July 13-18.

This exhibit is not open to the public but is intended for merchants and their buyers and will cover the new fall and Christmas lines.

The Mokena firm makes automobile gaskets and other cork products, including an archery target that is finding wide acceptance, according to Millard Lerch, one of the owners of the company. The firm is reported to be planning to increase its work force to increase production to meet demands.

Mokena is slated for 10:30 o'clock and after that the grand prize, a Ford Mustang, will be awarded.

The four-day festival at Mokena will begin with the parade the afternoon of the Fourth. According to the committee in charge there will be numerous marching units, floats and music. As is to be expected the parades this year will reflect some of the atmosphere of Illinois' celebration of its 150th year of statehood.

After the parade at Mokena volunteer fire departments from the area will have a waterball fight. That will be at 2:30 o'clock and at 4 o'clock the Teen Queen will be crowned. An outdoor dance for teens will be held from 6 to 9 o'clock on Friday night, July 5, and on Saturday will be the auction sale at 2:30 o'clock in Community Park with Norman Strassenberg presiding. Prior to that, at 1:30 there will be a Kiddy parade.

On Sunday there will be a Little League ballgame at 2:30.

Garden Club Fulfills Beautification Dream

Telephone: 479-9321

The Mokena garden club can take the credit for the new plantings at the Mokena railroad station. The club commissioned a landscape architect from the co-operative extension service of the University of Illinois, to design a plan, which was then submitted to the railway authorities for approval. After which the Johnson Evergreen nurseries from New Lenox were the bidders for furnishing and planting the shrub-beries and trees as specified. At a suitable time, grass will be planted from seed donated from Eberts Farm service.

The Garden Club chairmen most responsible for the project are Mrs. Berle Needham, for her preliminary correspondence with railroad officials; Mrs. R.C. Holleman, for the organization of the project and Mrs. Wm. Driane, for the execution of the plans. Proceeds from the club's annual Flower Shows have been their means of defraying the costs.

The Garden Club hopes the community will like these efforts to improve this area and will cooperate by being careful not to disturb the plantings.

Rain Ends Orland Park Art Show

Noisy Parker Crack Down

An ordinance, designed to bring quiet to those areas where the sound of racing, rumbling and popping motors have brought many complaints from householders disturbed and annoyed by the noise, was adopted this week by the Orland Park village board.

A number of these disturbed householders were present at the previous meeting of board to voice complaints and they were assured that the board could be expected to take action at its meeting Monday night.

The measure bans the racing of motors, stunting, touring, cruising, and tire squealing. The ordinance also states that no person "driving or in charge of a motor vehicle shall permit it to stand unattended in any parking area without first stopping the engine, locking the ignition and removing the key."

A parking area is defined as any space, blacktopped or otherwise, used and designed for off-street parking purposes for any business, church, school or residential use.

State law, it was pointed out, and other village laws, bans leaving a car, with the engine running, unattended on a street or highway.

The ordinance defines a motor vehicle as any vehicle which is self-propelled, so the ordinance covers trucks too. At the previous board meeting a woman told village officials that the hot gasses from unattended trucks, with engines running, that were backed up to her property line had destroyed shrubs and bushes, besides polluting the air.

The ordinance also makes it unlawful for a group of three or more persons to loiter about any parking area.

The village will have signs made for the operator, or owner or person in control of a parking area to post on the premises.

The signs will read:

"No vehicle shall be left unattended with the motor running in this parking area. Blowing of horns, unlawful stopping and starting, cruising, stunting and touring as defined in Ordinance No. 368 of the Village of Orland Park are prohibited in this parking area."

N.L. Annexation Gets OK

Recommendation that a northwest area be annexed to the Village of New Lenox, made by the New Lenox Planning Commission, was approved by the village board at its regular meeting June 19.

The area embraces Elm Drive to Maple Lane and Inner Court up to Francis road, west of Cedar road.

There are approximately 50 families reported living there and it is claimed that a majority favor annexation to the village so they can get sewer service.

Any residents of the area who are opposed to the annexation may express their views to the village board at its next meeting, July, providing they call the village hall first and arrange to be on the agenda, it was stated.

It has been proposed that the project be financed thru special assessment of the property owners, with the village putting up a share of the cost.

A SUDDEN SHOWER brought the Orland Park Hills Home-owners 3d Annual Art Show to a sudden end last Sunday afternoon. Exhibitors, however, were prepared and in moments had work covered with sheets of plastic or had rushed it under shelter. Most hair-dos were total losses but as far as is known there was little or no damage to the art. The artist wiping away the raindrops from a painting is Betty Kott. Other pictures combine to tell story of art caught in the rain. Evelyn De Ross was chairman of the show, assisted by Barbara Fox and Beverly Anderson. There were 42 exhibitors from Illinois and adjoining states.

Up 5 cents over April, a blend price of not less than $4.73 per hundredweight will be paid dairy farmers in the Chicago market pool of Central Milk Producers Cooperative for May deliveries of Grade A milk to plants in the marketing area, it was announced today.

The $4.73 applies to milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content sold in Chicago and closeby areas which form the marketing area. It is 25 cents per hundredweight higher than the May blend a year ago, according to Pure Milk Association, which serves as marketing agent for Central Milk Producers Cooperative. CMPC is composed of Wisconsin and Illinois dairy farmer cooperatives, including PMA, which are the primary suppliers of milk for Chicago.

The 5-cent increase over the April blend price is attributed mainly to the $5.55 Class I price announced by Central Milk Producers Cooperative for May. The Class I price for April was $5.40 per hundredweight.

The May Class II price paid Chicago market farmers for milk sold for products other than fluid milk and cream was $4.19 per 100 pounds, compared with $4.18 for April. Class I utilization totaled 40.9 percent in May compared with 43.5 percent in April.

Combining to make the May blend price were the Class I milk price of $5.55 per cwt. to be paid by handlers thru June for bottling milk sold in the Chicago metropolitan area, slightly different prices for Class I milk sold through the pool to other areas, and the $4.19 per hundredweight for milk sold in Class II.

The producers' return for that portion of their milk used for bottling at the May Class I price of $5.55 per hundredweight was 23.86 cents per half gallon or approximately 11.93 cents per quart.

In addition to the $4.73 marketing area blend price, producers whose farms are located in Zones A and B of the old Chicago Federal order will be paid nearby differentials of 9 and 7 cents per cwt., respectively, on their milk deliveries.

The producer butterfat differential on May milk was 8 cents per cwt. for each one-tenth of 1 percent above or below 3.5 percent. The butterfat differential follows the average wholesale price for 92-score butter on the Chicago market.

Total milk produced for the CMPC pool in May, a 31-day month, was 405,022,713 pounds compared with 377,291,555 pounds in April, a 30-day period.

Is there a disastrous blight that is attacking all our shrubs and evergreens? This is the question that many people are asking us. They further point out that they have sprayed or dusted with this or that chemical with no results.

Based on the number of questions and samples we have examined, we find that there is a pattern that exhibits itself. Climbing roses, privets, junipers and yews are especially common victims. Symptoms are patchy browning of the evergreens and die back or loss of leaves in deciduous plants. Evidence of disease is usually absent.

All this points to winter injury, especially when one considers the weather conditions of last summer. From June to September, the rainfall was only two thirds the normal amount. For many periods of several weeks there was no rain at all. The result was that many of the susceptible plants had a portion of their root system die. That caused some leaf drop. This in itself did not cause concern. However, many plants so injured did not leaf out at all this spring and others exhibited extensive dieback of many branches. In addition to the short rainfall, insects were also active. Scale insects were especially heavy on Euonymus and lilacs. Some of the infestations were severe enough to cause leaf drop, thus causing the plants to enter winter in a weakened condition.

Considering the factors of low rainfall, insect attack plus winter conditions plants were put to a severe test. Winter injury itself occurs in plants, no matter how good their condition, but the action of cold weather is not what is commonly supposed. If the temperature is lowered very slowly, most plants withstand sub zero temperatures with no injury. If, on the other hand, there is a very sudden drop from above freezing to sub zero temperatures, many plants will be damaged. Such a drop occurred in the Chicago area between Christmas and New Year's Day, and this added to the picture of overall plant damage.

The care and aid to recovery of such damaged plants is a real problem. If the damaged covered over a third of the plant, complete removal and replacement is in order. However, if only an occasional branch is killed, careful pruning can eliminate the brown patches in evergreens. Similarly, the dead branches of deciduous trees and shrubs can be removed and the rest of the plant shaped.

Once pruned and shaped the plant should be kept well watered and fed. One application of fertilizer applied now, if it has not been done earlier in the spring, is all that is needed. Use a 10-6-4 or 8-5-3 or similar analysis fertilizer at the rate of two to four pounds per 100 square feet of bed.

Open Letter from the HIRSCHS'

Dear friends,

St. Augustine made this comment about 400 A.D.: "The laying out of the body, the burial rites . . . are more of a consolation to the living than of assistance to the dead."

Since that time, many other qualified persons in religion and psychology have agreed. The funeral service impresses the reality of death, while it brings together relatives and friends to share the burden of grief of the bereaved family.

Respectfully,

Carl H. Hirsch

20 years from now the electric heating in your home will still be one of the brightest ideas you ever had.

Only an electric heating system will be just as modern in twenty years as today. It will probably outlast your mortgage. (No other heating system can make that statement.)

Electric heat has other things going for it, too. Like flexibility, cleanliness, economy of installation, silence, trouble-free operation, odorlessness, and five different types of systems to choose from.

All of which adds up to keeping your home bright and modern for many years to come. And electricity is making it possible. Check into electric heat . . . the modern heat.

Auction CCC Grain Bins

Farmers who need additional storage for their small grain crop -- and later on for soybeans and corn -- should get in touch with the local ASCS county office for details about sales of excess CCC bins, Chas. E. Deutschman, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, said today.

Under a program similar to -- but smaller than -- last year's the Commodity Credit Corporation-owned grain storage bins started moving May 10 from Midwest States to 15 eastern and southeastern States where there is a shortage of on-the-farm grain storage facilities. Shipment and sale of the bins -- earlier than last year to meet the need for small-grain storage space -- is intended to help farmers gain more bargaining power in the marketplace.

The bins generally will be of the same type as last year of 3,250 bushel capacity. Farmers eligible to buy the bins will certify that the bins will be used for storing and handling agricultural commodities.

Sale of the bins will be by competitive bids thru public-auction. Sales will be for cash or through a storage facility loan if the farmer is eligible for one.

Mercy Crusade Goal Is Set

A campaign goal of $25,526,000 has been set for the 1968 Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy.

he said.

Logelin is vice president-Chicago, U.S. Steel Corp.

The amount, determined by Crusade trustees, represents an increase of 6% over the $24,095,808 raised in last year's drive which achieved 100.2% of the goal.

Largest charitable campaign in the metropolitan Chicago area, the Crusade of Mercy raises funds for the Community Fund of Chicago, Mid-America Chapter of the Red Cross and the Suburban Community Chest Council. More than 900 voluntary human care services are supported by the Crusade.

This year seven additional suburban community chests will participate in Metro, bringing the total to 88. They cover 147 suburban communities in five counties.

Edward C. Logelin, general campaign chairman, expressed confidence that the goal, an all-time high, can be met, although acknowledging "it won't be easy."

"Top management in business and industry and individual citizens are deeply concerned about the serious problems which today confront everybody who lives in a metropolitan area," he said.

"I am convinced - and I'm making it my business to convince others - that Crusade of Mercy services remain the core of our attack on social problems," Logelin stated.

He added that Crusade services are daily on the firing line, face to face with some of the key issues.

"But to increase their impact, they need more help in the form of greater financial support," the chairman pointed out.

"This is no time for 'business as usual' or 'giving as usual'. This year's campaign calls for extra effort and extra support."

Explaining the increased goal, Kott said that city dwellers and suburbanites have more problems which demand the attention of voluntary human care services.

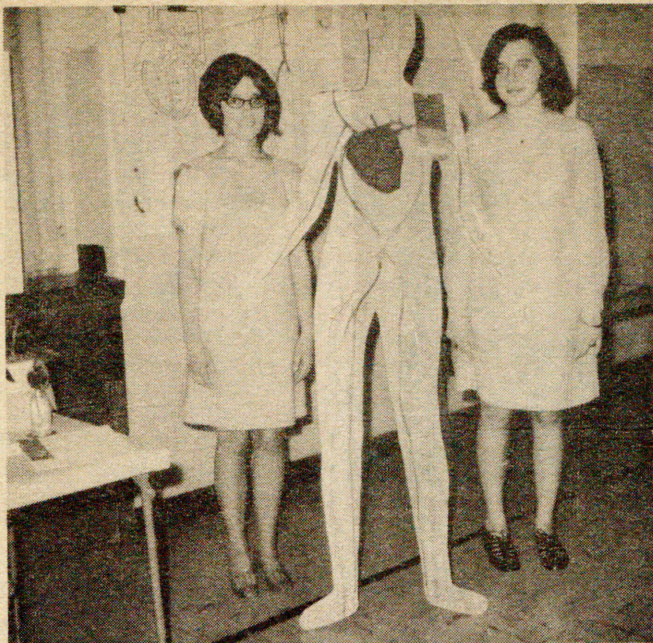

These range from care of homeless children to services to the aged, and include family counselling, visiting nurse service, rehabilitation for handicapped people, and services to youth.

Red Cross assistance to servicemen and their families has burgeoned because of the Viet Nam war, Kott added. "And we are constantly faced with rising costs which affect all Crusade services in Chicago and the suburbs."

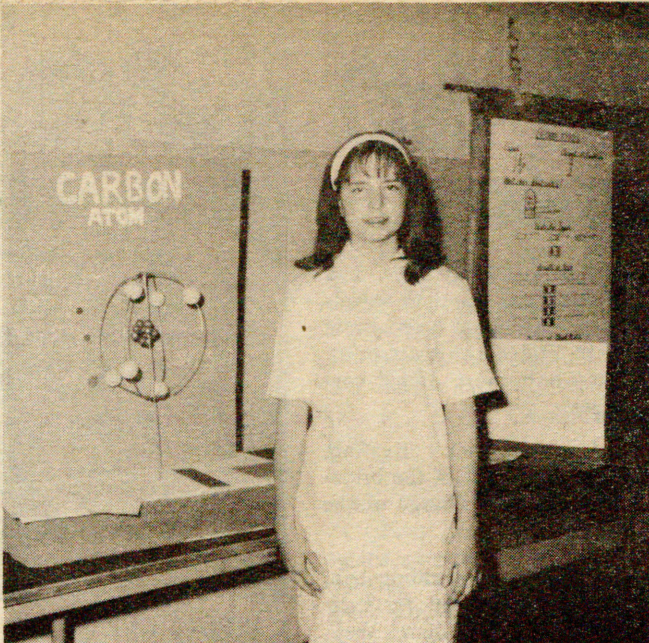

Division of campaign funds, determined by Crusade trustees, will be: Community Fund of Chicago, 68.7%; Red Cross, 16.9%; Suburban Community Chest Council, 14.4%.

Logelin announced that the campaign will open officially September 19. Organization of volunteers is now underway; solicitation will be directed to 35,000 business and industrial firms and their 1,750,000 employees. In addition, each participating suburban community chest will conduct a local campaign directed to retail businesses, school and municipal employees and professional people.

Included in the suburban chest campaigns are Orland Township and Palos Township and the United Community Fund of Palos Heights.

Grocers To Be Briefed On Food Program

The food stamp program, which begins here July 29, will be explained to food merchants of Will County in a meeting on June 26, at 7:30 p.m. at the Woodruff Hotel, 26 E. Jefferson, Joliet, Ill.

The briefing will be conducted by George Childress, Assistant Officer-In-Charge of the Cook County food stamp office.

Administering the program is the U.S. Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the Will County department of public aid.

Authorization of food merchants - both retail and wholesale - is being handled by the USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service, 168 North Ottawa, Joliet, while certification of eligible families will be handled by the department of public aid at 57 West Jefferson, Joliet.

The food stamp program represents another means of using America's agricultural abundance to improve the diets of low-income citizens by increasing their food purchasing power.

It works like this: The department of public aid determines the eligibility of the family and tells them the amount they will need to invest in the program, an amount that generally depends on the family size and income.

Eligible persons pay that amount in cash for food coupons, and receive free enough additional coupons to enable them to buy substantially increased food supplies.

Recipients spend their coupons just as they would money in any authorized retail food store. They can buy any food for human consumption they choose, except for foods plainly identified as being imported. Since this is a food program, non-food items such as alcoholic beverages, tobacco products, soaps, pet food, vegetable seed and the like cannot be purchased with food stamp coupons.

Grocers redeem the coupons at local banks through authorized food wholesalers. Banks redeem them through the federal reserve system.

Surveys have been conducted to determine the effectiveness of the food stamp program first introduced in May, 1961.

These findings show that food sales, in dollars, increased an average of 8 percent. Meats, produce and other grocery items shared in the increase, as did both large and small stores.

More Farmers Sign In Feed Grain Program

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman announced that a new all-time record number of farmers plan to participate in the feed grain program. On the basis of preliminary final reports from States, 1,497,724 farms have been signed up as participants in the 1968 program, compared with 1,308,000 last year and 1,400,000 (including barley) in 1966.

A near-record acreage diversion is also planned by producers signed up in the 1968 program. Preliminary total estimates from States show diversion of 34,360,000 acres from production of corn and grain sorghum this crop year. The total is virtually the same as the record diversion reported for the 1965 and 1966 programs, with barley acreage deducted from those sign-ups.

Secretary Freeman said corn-sorghum base on signed farms also set a new record.

Of the 76.5 million acres of corn-sorghum base acreage on signed farms, preliminary estimates show 57.9 million acres is corn base and 18.6 million is sorghum.

Codini-Stancato Vows Recited At St. Jude

St. Jude Catholic Church, New Lenox, provided the setting for the June 8, 10:00 a.m. wedding of Mary Beth Codini and Sgt. William A. Stancato.

Father Andre Schludecker performed the double ring ceremony before an altar festooned with bouquets of blue and white mums, while Mrs. Elaine Griffin presided at the organ with appropriate wedding selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mario D. Codini Rt. 30, New Lenox, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ryder, 14413 S. Emerald Ave., Riverside, Ill.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line sleeveless gown of white nylon over taffeta, designed with a scooped neckline. Her veil of chiffon was held in place by an arrangement of matching leaves and petals and she carried blue and white carnations.

Gowned identically were the bridesmaids, Mrs. Michael Codini and Mrs. Patrick Lydon. They all wore pearl earrings and necklaces, a gift of the bride.

Logan Hoover was best man and ushers were Michael Codini and Patrick Lydon. James and Kenneth Codini were altar boys.

Approximately 200 relatives and friends attended the reception which was held later that evening at the American Legion hall in Frankfort from 6 to 11 p.m. Larry Budzinski's orchestra furnished the music for dancing.

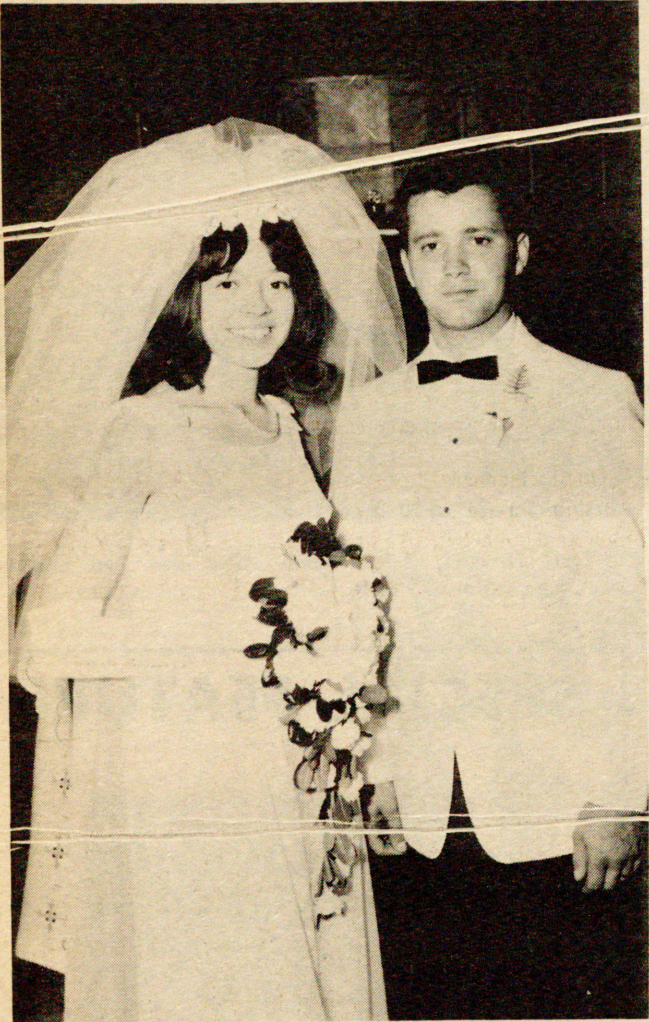

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother chose an orchid sheath dress with white accessories. The bridegrooms mother selected a royal blue crepe dress with matching accessories. They both wore orchid corsages.

Mrs. Patrick Keating, Riverdale, aunt of the bridegroom was in charge of the guest book.

Following a wedding trip, the newlyweds left for their home at 1215 Williams Way, Apt. 5, Yuba City, Calif., where the bridegroom is stationed at the Beale AFB.

Will Combine Milk Districts July 1

On July 1 a Chicago regional Federal milk market order will be put into effect by the U.S. Department of Agriculture which will combine the Chicago, Milwaukee, Madison, Northeastern Wisconsin, Rock River Valley and Northwestern Indiana milk markets.

The department announced the single order for these areas on completing its count of the vote a referendum which showed dairy farmers approve the issuance of the Chicago regional order by a vote of 12,585 to 2,544. This represents an 84 percent favorable vote which is considerably in excess of the two-thirds favorable producer vote required to put a Federal milk order into effect.

Avery A. Vose, President of Pure Milk Association, said PMA received official word today of the outcome of the referendum and the department's decision to promptly issue the Chicago regional order.

"Except for the inclusion of the Northwestern Indiana order area, which was unwarranted and unsupported by facts, Pure Milk Association considers the Chicago regional milk market order far sighted and sound,"

Vose commented.

"The Class I price of at least $5.53 per cwt. of bottling milk at the 85-mile zone, or marketing area under the new Chicago order, sets a more realistic minimum producer price than the department had proposed in its recommendation last December, and extends that price over a wider area," Vose said.

"The Chicago regional order offers dairy farmer cooperatives a better foundation for bargaining for superpool prices," he declared.

Superpool prices paid producers are higher than the minimum Class I prices established by the Department of Agriculture under a Federal milk market order.

Vose said the $5.53 Class I minimum under terms of the Chicago regional order will remain in effect through April 1969.

He pointed out that Pure Milk Association and other Chicago market dairy farmer cooperatives pressed for higher Class I prices for producers than the department had recommended last December, their purpose being to encourage dairy farmers to stay in dairying and to insure consumers adequate supplies of milk.

Explains Safety Law

Secretary of State Paul Powell has issued a new, small brochure explaining the provisions and requirements of the Illinois Safety Responsibility Law.

"This law affects all motorists who are involved in accidents in which there is more than $100 property damage, personal injury or death, but it is not very well understood, even though it has been in effect since 1946," Mr. Powell said.

"As a result, many motorists have been needlessly inconvenienced by having their drivers licenses and motor vehicle registrations suspended simply because they were not aware of what the law requires under those circumstances," he added.

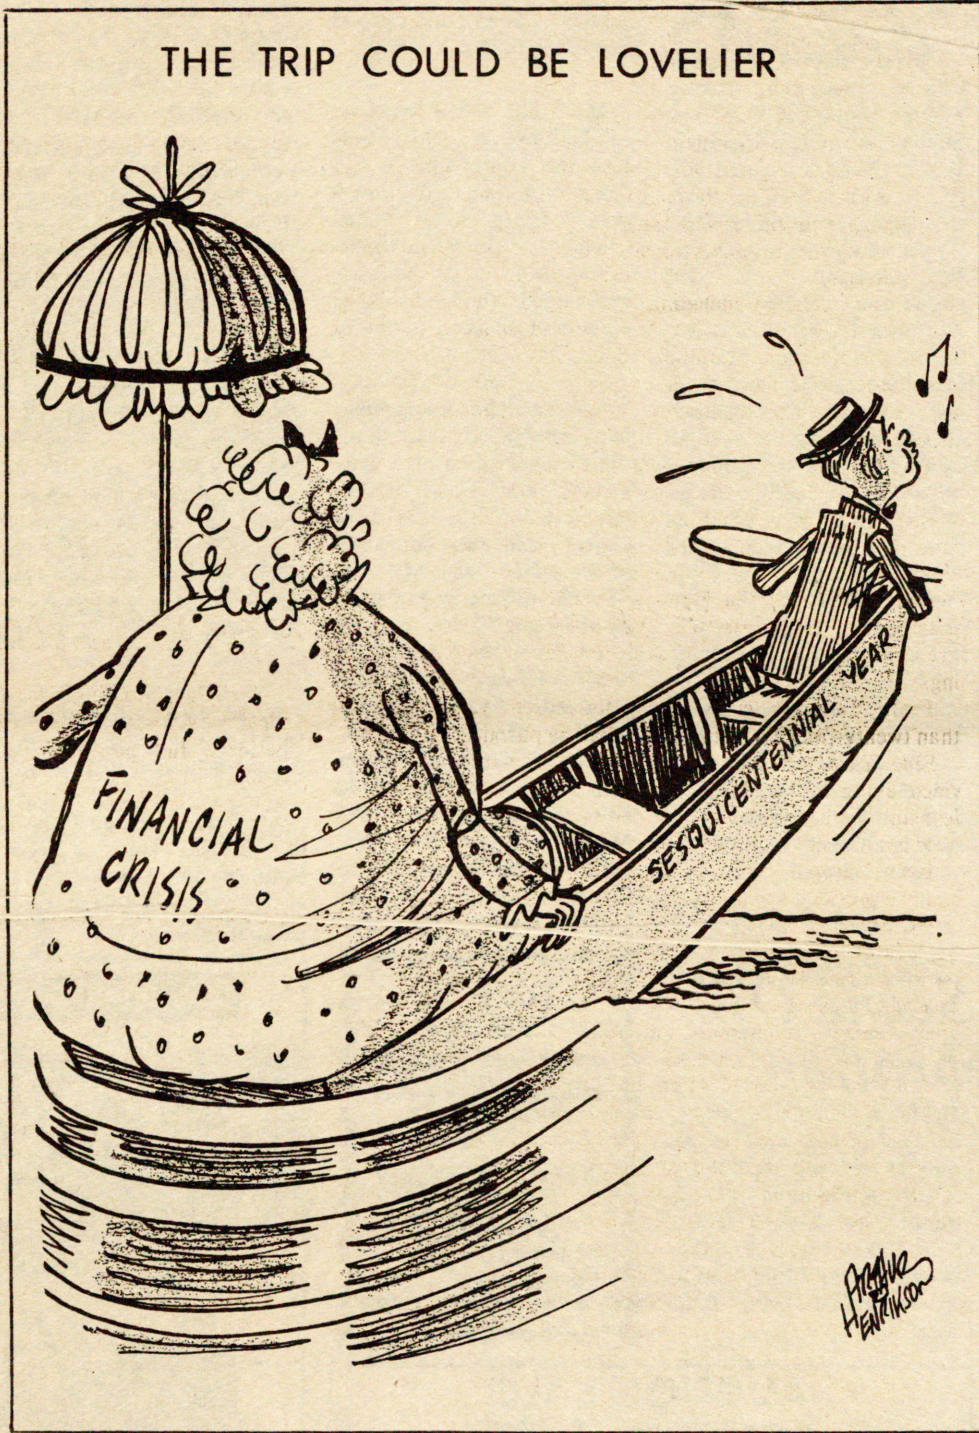

"We hope this brochure will help to prevent such inconveniences."

The brochure, titled Protect Your Drivers License -- Know the Law, is being enclosed with all renewed drivers licenses, is available at all downstate Driver License Examining Stations and the three Motor Vehicle Facilities in Chicago, and will be distributed through Driver License Mobile Units appearing at county fairs and similar events, and at Secretary of State's exhibits at the Illinois State Fair, Mr. Powell said.

The brochure points out that the law makes no distinction between motorists who are at fault and those not at fault in the type of accidents affected by the law.

Every motorists involved in that type of accident is required to file a written report within 10 days with the Division of Highways, Department of Public Works and Buildings. This is in addition to any report required by local police or other governmental agencies.

Motorists who were uninsured at the time of the accident must do two things: post cash or bond in an amount determined by the Division of Highways to be sufficient to cover the damages and file future proof of financial responsibility for a three-year period.

The bond or cash deposit will not be required if the motorist obtains a release from liability, has been adjudicated not to be liable or files a written agreement providing for the payment of all claims.

Future proof of financial responsibility may be established by filing a certificate of insurance, filing a bond in the amount of $25,000 or depositing $25,000 cash.

These are all requirements of the law, and motorists failing to comply with them must have their drivers licenses and all motor vehicle registrations suspended, Mr. Powell said.

"It is my hope that this brochure will help motorists involved in accidents to avoid having their licenses suspended only because they were not aware of what they should do," Secretary Powell said.

Ask Public Help With Solicitors

Village officials at Orland Park are asking help from the public in the education of magazine solicitors.

When someone from Maine working his way thru college in California comes to your door hustling subscriptions for magazines, published, let's say, in the four letter states of Ohio, Iowa Utah, the village has a problem, according to Village Clerk Jon Anderson.

The situation described above puts the solicitor in interstate commerce, Anderson said, and local laws, state or municipal, don't count.

The village does suggest to these solicitors, however, that they come to the village hall and get a permit. Anderson suggests that when a solicitor pops up at someone's door the householder should ask to see his permit and if he doesn't have one decline to talk to him. Anderson figures that if a solicitor meets with a series of rebuffs he will come in and get a permit.

The village would like to have solicitors to get permits so village officials know they are working in the community.

The fact that the village issues such solicitors a permit, Anderson said, does not mean that they have been checked, found to be pure as the driven snow and are good people to do business with.

All the permit means, the clerk explained, is that village officials know that solicitors are in town.

Learning To Float And Glide Lessons

"Jellyfish floating" is an ideal way for a child to experience full buoyancy, according to Charles Beseman, Red Cross water safety chairman.

To teach a child to "jellyfish float", stand next to the youngster in waist-deep water. Ask him to take a breath, bend forward with his hands on his thighs until his face and upper body submerge in the water, and then to reach down and grasp his ankles without bending his knees.

As his upper body submerges, the water will buoy him up and lift his feet off the bottom of the pool. The youngster's body is now suspended in the water, with only a part of his arched back showing. To teach a youngster how to recover his footing from this position, just tell him to lift his head and upper body toward the surface so that his feet can settle on the bottom.

Practice the "jellyfish float" with the beginner several times, until he feels confident that the water will hold most, if not all, of his weight. Beseman said when the child "feels at home in the water" he is ready to learn the prone float that leads to natural swimming movements.

To teach a youngster the prone float, ask the child to face you in waist-deep water and to place both of his out-stretched hands in yours. Instruct him to take a breath, put his face in the water and stretch his legs back as far as they will go.

With legs outstretched, instruct him to relax in the water. This enables him to float easily, with his heels close to the surface.

It's possible, however, that a body can sink deeper into the water - though, in reality, it is still floating. This sinking sensation can sometimes frighten a beginner and slow his learning. To avoid frightening a child, Beseman suggested you take the youngster's outstretched hands in one of yours, step alongside his body and support his waist from underneath your free hand.

To teach a beginner how to stand up from the "dead man's float" position, tell him to pull his knees up under himself, press his hands down, and lift his head.

Practice the prone float several times with the youngster, alternating the floating position and the standing position. Gradually ease away your hand from underneath his waist as he settles into a comfortable and balanced position.

The "prone glide" is nothing more than the prone float with a push added. To teach this swimming technique, ask the youngster to lean forward, with his arms extended in front until his shoulders are in the water. Instruct him to take a breath, place his face in the water and push off towards you. The push will carry him about five feet. Repeat.

Next: "Flutter kicking" and swimming.

WHEREAS, such practices are detrimental to the safety and welfare of the persons using said parking areas or living adjacent to said parking areas; and

It shall be unlawful for any person while in any parking area as herein defined to race the motor, as herein defined, of any motor vehicle or motorcycle or to suddenly start or stop any such motor vehicle or motorcycle such that the tires on such vehicle shall squeal or to cause to be made any other loud or unusual noise. It shall also be unlawful for any person in any parking area to engage in stunting, touring or cruising as herein defined. It shall also be unlawful for any person in any parking area as herein defined to blow the horn on any motor vehicle or motorcycle. Nothing herein contained shall be construed however to prevent the sudden stopping of a motor vehicle or motorcycle or the blowing of the horn thereon when legitimately necessary to avoid collision with another vehicle or with a person or persons, and while not performing an act herein prohibited.

Section 3

Motor Running on Unattended Vehicle. No person driving or in charge of a motor vehicle shall permit it to stand unattended in any parking area without first stopping the engine, locking the ignition and removing the key.

Section 6

Penalty. Any person found guilty of violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars ($25.00) or more than five hundred dollars ($500.00).

Section 7

Invalidity. Should any provision of this Ordinance or any part thereof be held invalid for any reason, such invalidity shall not affect the validity or effect any other section or part thereof.

Bag Young Thieves

An arrest by Orland Park police of four juvenile "cow-boy" drivers has cleared up 37 cases of auto theft for Chicago police, Orland Chief Robert Olson has been informed.

Three of the boys picked up were on probation for auto theft and were found in stolen cars when arrested. Three of the youths, whose names police declined to divulge because of their being juveniles, were arrested by Sgt. Robert Hubert and Officer Ronald North after a couple of residents in Maycliff had complained to police about the manner in which the quartet was driving.

One of them succeeded in getting away but was picked up later in Chicago.

Chief Olson wished to express his appreciation of the interest taken by the complainants who took the time to call police when they saw people in deliberate violation of the law.

"I wish and hope that anyone who sees a law violation or sees or hears anything that rouses their suspicions that a crime has been committed or about to be will call us," Chief Olson said.

One of the cars recovered at Orland Park was stolen at Kankakee, one in Chicago that belonged to a policeman there, and the other was taken at Ridgeview and was recovered before the owner knew that it was gone.

JUNE GRADS: Do Montgomery Ward Secretaries Really Earn More Money?

It probably seems that way. Take the case of Mary and Betty.

Both girls are recent high school graduates. Their salaries are also identical. But Betty works at Montgomery Ward. She saves on clothes, radio, TV, appliances, etc. thru employee discounts. Her paycheck buys more! She lives better!

And she enjoys all the plus benefits of a company whose business it is to please people. Centrally located too - between Old Town, Downtown, and your front door.

Why settle for less when your paycheck can buy more? No exp. necessary. We will train.

Raise Parcel Weight Limit July 1

Beginning July 1, mailers will be able to send 30 pound parcels between first class post offices which are 150 miles or more apart. The present weight limit is 25 pounds.

This is the second of five increases affecting size and weights limits for parcels scheduled to take effect annually until 1971, when a 40 pound, 84 inch maximum size will be authorized between all first class post offices. The size limitation is now 72 inches in combined girth and length.

The next increase, on July 1, 1969, will raise the weight limit from 30 to 40 pounds; on July 1, 1970, the size will be increased to 78 inches; and on July 1, 1971, the size is scheduled to be increased to 84 inches.

Parcels weighing up to 40 pounds can be mailed between first class post offices less than 150 miles apart. Also, packages addressed to or from 2nd, 3rd, and 4th class post offices, overseas APO'S and FPO'S, and the states of Alaska and Hawaii are not affected by the increase in size and weight provisions of the Public Law 89-593, which became effective January 15, 1967.

Illinois Travel Guide Available to Tourists

A colorful new guide to travel in Illinois, artistically blending geography, history, biography and modern tourism, is now available to motorists at Standard Oil stations throughout the state.

"A Traveler's Guide to Illinois History" is American Oil Company's contribution to the state's sesquicentennial celebration.

A feature of the guide is an illustrated map depicting 10 of the men whose actions greatly influenced the development of the Prairie State, and many of the sights and locations, historic and modern, that may be seen today in a series of motor-touring.

Text accompanying the map contains brief biographies of the 10 outstanding historical figures and recounts some of their more memorable accomplishments and exploits.

Reverse side of the guide contains 10 recommended motor tours, each named for one of the 10 men, showing motorists how they can reach points of interest in various areas of the state on one-day or weekend driving tours. The recommended tours list not only points of interest but contain detailed instructions on routes and mileages.

Abraham Lincoln is, naturally, preeminent among the 10 historic characters featured in the guide. A drawing that shows the Civil War president in a standing pose dominates the map, and the text recounts his role in legislative maneuvering that resulted in the transfer of the state capital from Vandalia to Springfield in 1837.

Others featured are Chicago architect and city planner Daniel H. Burnham, Ulysses S. Grant, the missionary - explorer Jacques Marquette, the Indian chief Black Hawk, Adlai Stevenson, religious leader Joseph Smith, orator and statesman Stephen A. Douglas, Revolutionary War hero George Rogers Clark, and the crusading editor Elijah Lovejoy.

"Among the many men who have shaped the history and destiny of Illinois," says an accompanying text, "these names are prominent. . . The waterways these men traveled, the towns they lived in, the buildings where they worked, in many cases, have changed little with the passing of time.

"Today, over 128,000 miles of roads criss-cross the state. From any city it is possible to drive, in a single day or a weekend, to a site of historical importance or scenic beauty. For young and old, the first-hand experience of seeing Illinois as it used to be, is a means of better understanding the meaning of today's Illinois."

A. V. Fraser, Central regional vice president for the Standard Oil division, American Oil Company, Chicago, said nearly two million copies of the guide will be distributed to motorists through Standard Oil stations in Illinois and nearby states. Another 15,000 copies have been set aside for presentation to schools and libraries throughout the state.

Guide was designed and illustrated by Dale Bolen, staff artist in the company's public relations department.

By: Richard DeLano

You may not believe it, but grass is one of the easiest plants to grow in the garden. Just think about how often you see it coming up from the cracks in the sidewalk or in flower beds.

In spite of this, other plants will take it over if conditions are more favorable for them than grass. Consider moss for example. This is one of those annoying problems that almost defies solution. Yet moss is there in the lawn because of a specific condition. First of all, many people confuse moss with algae in the lawn. Moss is a green furry-like growth while algae is a green coating that sticks to the soil surface. Both conditions develop for a number of reasons.

If either moss or algae are in the soil it is a good indication that something is preventing the grass from growing. Therefore one answer that is given to control this problem is to grow grass. Make conditions so attractive for the grass that it will thrive and crowd out the moss and algae.

The most common cause for poor lawns is a poor depleted soil. Moss is much better adapted to growing in poor soil than grass. Proper fertilizing will help the grass to grow and eliminate the moss and algae. However, low fertility may not be the only cause of the problem. A constantly wet soggy soil can also be involved. Low spots in the lawn should be filled to provide for natural runoff of water. Just a slight fraction of an inch ridge of soil covered with sod will often deflect water away from areas where it is inclined to stand. In extreme instances where large areas are involved, it may be practical to lay underground tile or to build invisible trenches filled with gravel and surfaced with a thin layer of soil or sod. Such trenches can be guided to areas where the moisture can be dissipated without damage to the landscape.

Still another factor is shade. You may notice that moss or algae are usually observed in areas of the lawn that are shaded constantly by the house. Areas such as on the North side or very close to the foundation are common moss areas. If trees are causing the shade, they can sometimes be thinned to lighten the shade.

Another solution is to plant shade tolerant grasses such as one of the creeping red fescues or Poa trivialis. An even newer shade tolerant bluegrass variety is A-34 blue grass which was developed by a local sod nursery.

It is also true that few lawn grasses do well in acid soil. However, this is very rarely a problem in the Chicago area. Sometimes you hear recommendations that include liming as a way to eliminate algae or moss. In the Chicago area are soils that are not acid. Therefore the addition of lime is harmful. The only time that lime should be applied to the soil is after soil tests indicate the need.

A final factor that favors moss infestation is a heavy compacted soil. This can be remedied by the use of an aerifying tool.

In areas where there is a heavy dense mat of moss in the lawn, it can be killed by spraying with a five percent solution of iron sulfate. You may have to go to the drug store to purchase it. This will stop the moss from growing while the lawn grasses become established, provided that the factors responsible for the moss are corrected. Still other temporary corrective measures are hand raking and burning with ammonium sulfate or spraying with copper sulfate. Use the copper sulfate at the rate of 5 ounces in 4 gallons of water per 1,000 square feet. Algae can be eliminated by spraying with 1 teaspoon of copper sulfate in 8 gallons of water.

Township Government: Local Level Expertness

Someone was once asked what an expert is.

The answer -- part sense and part nonsense -- came back: "An expert is someone from more than 100 miles away who talks in a loud voice."

Obviously, this sort of definition should never be taken too literally. Frequently, there is far more skill and capability in a given locality than would be obtained from a distance.

A local government official, whom you know, may not seem to have the glamour of a way-off political leader -- but he is far more valuable to his locality than is the "expert" from afar.

Local leaders know firsthand what is going on in the community. They know the people, the problems, the needs. They know what should be done to achieve what is right, or to restrict what is wrong. If they do not respond well or perform well, people know it -- and they may very well be voted out of office.

Township officials are in an expert position to serve local communities. Certainly, more remote officials would be handicapped to do as well.

Township officials are directly responsible to the people, even to the people's "legislative" powers at town meetings.

Far more remote would be the "experts from afar." Even more so would be appointed administrators of local affairs whose first responsibility would be to a centralized agency in Washington.

A prominent federal government official has said, "To maintain perspective and human understanding in the atmosphere of centralization is a task that many able and conscientious people have found well-nigh impossible."

At the township level, on the other hand, its officials have a natural position from which they can maintain a strong perspective and understanding of peoples' needs.

Although there are variations in the functions of township officials throughout the state, all of them start, basically, with the town board. This board consists of elected officials, including the township supervisor, the town clerk and three township auditors. In some townships, an assistant supervisor is elected, but he is not a voting member of the town board.

Township boards generally meet once a month. At these meetings, current business is reviewed and passed upon.

Annual town meetings are held once a year, on the first Tuesday of April. The electorate attends these meetings, where they vote on township tax levies, budgets and programs proposed by the township administration.

The township supervisor serves as chairman of the town board but not as chairman of the town meeting. To preserve a truly democratic "non-regulated" town meeting, the attending electorate chooses a moderator to conduct this session.

In day-to-day activity, however, the supervisor is the top official in the township. He handles major administrative duties, serves as the township treasurer, as administrator of general assistance, and is responsible for receiving income, paying bills and keeping accounts.

All of the supervisor's actions are subject to the review and approval of the town board, at the board's periodic meetings.

The town clerk has charge of all town records, certifies the amount of taxes necessary for township needs, handles voting registrations, issues township election notices, is a member of the town board, and keeps minutes of all meetings.

Other elected township officials include the assessor, collector and highway commissioner. Each of these jobs vary throughout the state, depending upon the size and make-up of the county involved.

The township assessor handles real and personal property tax assessments in all Illinois townships except those in Cook County (Chicago metropolitan area). Here, the township assessor makes personal property tax assessments, but not real estate assessments -- the latter being handled by the county assessor.

A township collector exists in five larger counties in Illinois (those with more than 100,000 population, including Cook, Madison, Peoria, Sangamon and Will). In smaller counties, with fewer people and businesses to cover, the county collector handles the complete collection job.

All townships in Illinois elect highway commissioners. Their job is to supervise the construction and maintenance of township (rural) roads. In some townships however, such as in the Chicago suburban area, and where township areas coincide with a city or suburban area, there may be no township roads. State law still requires the election of a highway commissioner in these townships, but the position is purely an "honorary" one, with no functions or budgets involved.

Township government functions range over a broad area -- including taxation, health, welfare, local improvements, roads and bridges, libraries, and other inter-community matters. The inter-relation of these functions will be reviewed in the next article in this series.

The 1968 Official State Highway map, mailed free to motorists upon request, has proved a popular item, according to Francis S. Lorenz, Illinois public works director. In addition to the state highway map, information regarding Illinois' Sesquicentennial and maps of principal cities are included in a separate section. With Director Lorenz is Ralph Brown, deputy chief highway engineer, right, examining a list of requests from the St. Donnie Club, Naperville. Requests for free maps should be sent to the Division of Highways, Springfield. Maps are also available in the Lockport Herald office.

Homer Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary will meet Monday, July 1, at 8 p.m. at the fire station on Cedar Rd.

Members are asked to bring items which are unique or old for a "show and tell" session.

Hostesses will be Mary Morris, Derexa Garrabrant, and Johanna Bilex.

Ordination Service

Raymond Scott, pastor of the church, June 30 at 8 p.m. Several ministers from the Midwest Fellowship will be present to conduct the service.

Completes Basic

Airman Terry E. Cokeing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred F. Cokeing, of 13602 W. 147th Pl., has completed basic training at Amarillo AFB, Texas. He is now assigned as a computer operator with a unit of the Air Force Systems Command at Sunnyvale, Calif.
